

TODAY'S TEACHER – A CORONA WARRIOR

Indeed, today's teachers ARE 'Warriors' or rather Gladiators with the online classes as their arenas; teachers who are tirelessly working to benefit their students.

However, the parents, instead of appreciating and feeling obliged are criticizing teachers. As the online classes go on – which many of the teachers are struggling to learn and conduct despite the fact that this is a totally new thing for them, the parents should cooperate rather than do otherwise.

Imagine any expert forced to perform his/her job while being watched; he/she is bound to make mistakes and fumble. When these online classes are going on; parents are sitting alongside their children – watching, observing and even reacting to the teacher's performances – imagine how the child will react to these kinds of expressions by their parents. Obviously there will be no respect in the minds of the students towards their teachers.

Parents are also accusing schools of charging high fees and delivering poor quality education. Fees are not the department of teachers – they are just doing their job – anew revamped structure; where they are struggling to fit in.

Earlier the teachers would spend only the working hours ie. 7.30/ 8 am to 1.30/2 pm in school. Now hours are unlimited!

If parents find it difficult to handle just their one child - imagine the teacher's plight who is conducting online classes with 40 -45 students and trying to make it effective as well.

BRAVO TEACHERS!!!
KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK!!!
