

MY FAVOURITE TEACHER

*Dehradun Club celebrates Teachers' Day 2020 – In Gratitude
Mrs Rashmi Naidu, Teacher; Spouse of Mr Ashok K Naidu - Memb # 2263*

I did my schooling from IIT Kanpur, where Mrs Amita Raha my favorite teacher, taught us English. She was quite methodical while teaching her subject. I loved her, respected her and liked her the best. She has left a permanent impression on my mind by her affection, convincing power, personality and admirable teaching method. She was our friend, philosopher and mentor. She not only observed dutifulness and strictness but also combined in her a number of other qualities. She was endowed with scholarship, love for teaching, capacity to create interest in her subject, inherent earnestness to see her pupils really educated and improved in character. She carries out her responsibilities fully without fear or favor and strictly enforced the rules of study and conduct. She was always smiling.

Mrs Amita Raha has many virtues of an ideal woman with a high sense of humanity. She has easily earned the genuine love and admiration of all right-thinking boys and girls. She and her students are bound much by the ties of the same relation as between a mother and her children. She not only teaches but also tends them. That is to say, she is a tutor, a mother, a mentor and a friend to her students. She takes loving care of her students in all matters of importance. As for example, she looks after their education, helps them in distress, finds them his edifying association and always keeps them on the right track. If a student was laidback in her class, she was quick to guide. She checks and reforms a student. But she dislikes people talking about her charities.

Her method of teaching was very easy and lucid. She has a strong, clear and pleasant voice. Every day she teaches us in a new style. She can make any grammatical problem easy. She knows well how to increase the curiosity of the students. In the class room she was just like an Englishwoman. Her pronunciation is good and she speaks English with a clear accent. She in her class creates an English environment. We never fail to understand any grammatical problem in her class. If any student cannot understand she becomes very friendly to students and makes them understand that.

She was a good organizer. Every program of our school was arranged by her. She managed them so carefully that nothing was lacking. All students and teachers loved her very much. I have always wanted to be a teacher like Mrs Amita Raha.
